Mark Sikes of Deal Sikes & Associates Appointed to City Planning Commission

HOUSTON, TEXAS, Thursday, March 6, 2014 — Mark O. Sikes, principal of the Deal Sikes & Associates valuation and counseling firm, has been appointed to the City of Houston Planning Commission.

The Houston Planning Commission, appointed by the Mayor Annise Parker and the Houston City Council, studies real estate development issues and makes recommendations to the City Council, and reviews and approves subdivision and development plats.

Sikes has provided real property valuation and counseling services for the owners of thousands of properties in Texas and many other states. With a client-base including private property owners, public agencies and major national corporations, Sikes has evaluated commercial, residential, agricultural, industrial and special purpose properties in addition to right-of-way and public improvement projects.

“I am pleased to serve our community in this capacity,” Sikes said. “Houston, the fourth largest city in the United States, is a dynamic, growing city, rich in culture and diversity, with a vibrant economy.”

Deal Sikes & Associates serves as an advisor to commercial property owners, counseling on a variety of matters including right-of-way acquisition management, economic impact studies, portfolio analysis, environmental contamination analysis and valuation services for financial transactions and estate tax planning and other real estate issues.

Deal Sikes & Associates is a Houston-based firm that provides commercial real estate valuation and counseling services for governmental agencies, real estate companies, law firms, real estate investors and corporate clients across the nation.
